Default Replacement Charge: Refers to the average replacement cost of this type of library material, as based on industry averages. This figure is used as a starting point for determining replacement costs for items for which the initial retail price is not recorded in the bibliographic record.

Processing Fee: Assessed for all materials that are withdrawn from the collection, because they are unreturned or damaged. The processing fee is waived for items that go to “Lost” status on Polaris, if they are returned before they are withdrawn. The processing fee varies from item type to item type, since it covers the approximate average processing cost for protective covers/cases, security strips, barcodes, cataloging fees and so forth (but not staff time).
